SAY NO TO THESE

BOGUS REFUGEES

READY FOR THE

EXODUS

THIS YEAR UP TO 60,000 people claiming to be refugees are set to flood into Britain. At least 80% of these will have entirely bogus credentials - they will simply be foreigners just seeking the good life in Britain and having no other reason for coming our country.

Immigration officials estimate that nearly 90% of these 'refugees' lie about their homes and background. When they arrive in Britain they are let in as long as they have concocted a good story and claim to be refugees. Once inside Britain many refugees simply just disappear and as there are so many of them they stand little risk of being caught by overworked immigration officials.

At present there is a backlog of 50,000 cases waiting to be investigated.

The British Government claims that it cannot do anything about this as it has signed a United Nations Convention on Refugees. What a pathetic excuse!

The National Front believes that we have enough problems of our own without importing the problems posed by a further 60,000 bogus refugees. We would tear up this convention, expel all refugees unless in exceptional circumstances and refuse admission to any non-Europeans arriving on our shores.

THIRD WORLD DISEASE: Hepatitis B a disease foreign to Britain.

IMMIGRATION MEANS MORE INJECTIONS FOR OUR CHILDREN!

GOVERNMENT HEALTH experts are planning to vaccinate every child in Britain against the killer disease hepatitis B, brought to our shores by Third World immigrants, it was revealed on October 13th.

Senior advisers to Health Minister William Waldegrave are recommending that every 12-year-old in Britain be given a course of three injections to immunize them against the deadly liver disease. This follows concern by leading doctors about the skyrocketing epidemic of hepatitis B in Third World countries. They expect the disease to break out in a big way in Britain as more immigrants arrive from South East Asia (Vietnamese "boat people"), China (Hong Kong), and Africa (hordes of so-called "refugees").

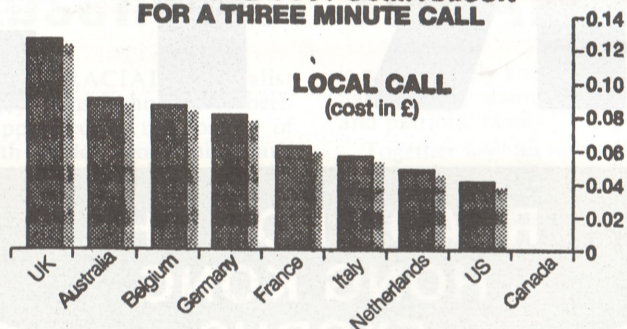

In these areas one person in five carries the lethal bug, which is spread by sex and infected drug needles.

Hepatitis B is already here. The World Health Organisation studied hospital blood samples from multi-racial cities such as London, Birmingham and Manchester, where one in 300 carried the killer virus. News of isolated cases have already leaked to the public and parents of 60 pupils at an infants' school near Huddersfield brought their children home when they found out that a seven-year-old boy was a hepatitis B carrier. Health ministers accused the parents of "ill-informed prejudice" for rightly removing their children from this grave risk to their health.

Now the experts have decided to act, planning to inject millions of British children with a vaccine whose side-effects are unknown. All because of a foreign disease. As one expert admitted to the Sunday Times on October 13th: "Many parents will ask why their children should have a series of three injections just because another child may be from an area outside Britain where this infection is widespread".

TELEPHONE COST COMPARISON FOR A THREE MINUTE CALL

Obscene Phone Call

THE NEWS that British Telecom is making a profit equivalent to £100 a second is obscene.

The news that Iain Vallance, the Chairman of British Telecom, is to receive yet another massive pay-rise of £1,200 a week to bring his basic annual wage to £450,000 is obscene.

The news that 3,000 British Telecom workers are to lose their jobs and that their colleagues who remain in employment have to settle for a 7.3% pay rise is obscene in the light of BT profits.

Local telephone calls in Britain are more expensive than in any other major industrialised nation and that is why BT has made such profits.

A National Front Government would bring BT back into the public domain ensuring that profits were ploughed back into the industry to lower the cost to the public as well as keeping the system up to date.

No Funds For The FLAG!

by Stephen Ebbs

A MONTHLY free newspaper is being written and produced by Asians for Asians in Blackburn and Darwen.

The newspaper called "Aawaz" (The Voice) is published in Urdu, Gujarati and English. The first edition was launched at a ceremony held at the Blackburn offices of the Ethnic Minorities' Development Association on the 10th October.

Funding is by a £25,000 grant from Blackburn Council and it is alleged that advertisements will raise the extra funds required.

Without doubt a grant would not be obtainable for a newspaper that is written and produced by Britons for Britons - such as The FLAG!

Jobs Shift to Europe

GLASSMAKER PILKINGTON is to axe 750 jobs in a major shake-up.

The jobs will go over the next two years from the 5,500 workforce at its head office in St Helens as the firm moves its operations to Europe.

The National Front warned that 1992 would see major job losses in Britain as firms moved to the centre of the European Community. Pilkingtons are one of the first firms to make the move.

JAPS THINK BRITAIN IS A NATION OF JUNKIES

by Steve Brady

BRITISH WORKERS working for Japanese car giant Toyota are to be subjected to humiliating and unreliable drug tests because the Japanese think the British are a nation of junkies.

Applicants for 3,300 jobs in Toyota's new car plants at Burnaston, Derbyshire and Shotton, North Wales, will have to provide urine samples for drug tests. Even after being taken on, they will have to submit to regular drug testing. Toyota's Japanese bosses say this is because "drug abuse is so widespread in Britain" it threatens the quality of the 200,000 vehicles a year with which they hope to flood the British market.

The tests have been slammed as "degrading" by British civil liberties groups and all of the five unions who themselves are engaged in a degrading contest to be the single union the new Japanese masters will deign to recognise.

UNRELIABLE

But the tests they intend to use are also unreliable. Professor Paul Turner, Professor of Clinical Pharmacology at St. Bartholomew's Hospital in London, said the tests were inaccurate. "They tend to have a high incidence of false negatives and false positives, and their introduction throughout industry could lead to many cases of unnecessary unhappiness" he said.

Ken Gill, General Secretary of the Manufacturing, Science and Finance Union, put it in a nutshell. "Although Japan is very advanced in manufacturing terms, some of their social relationships reflect their only recent departure from feudalism".

These arrogant Japs will soon discover that British workers aren't serfs. Nor can they treat them the way they treated our Prisoners of War, as slaves to be worked to death or used for barbaric medical experiments.

As far as we are concerned, they can stuff their drug tests and their foreign car plants. The new plants should be building British cars for the British market.

TAKING ORDERS: Britain's car industry should be run by British workers

Cultural Traditions Before the Law

by Stephen Ebbs

THE Trading standards office has launched an investigation in East Lancashire after claims that gold and silver is being sold, particularly by Asian jewellers, without the official hallmark.

Under the Hallmarking Act, gold and silver jewellery has to be stamped by the country's Assay offices; the nearest such office to East Lancashire is Sheffield. The Assay office charges about £10 to £11 for single item, which is precisely documented. There are further costs for the postage and the insurance.

Lord Odin, owners of Vall Hall jewellers in King William Street, Blackburn, commented "most honest goldsmiths were acting honestly and were simply following cultural traditions".

There are many organisations which operate for the sole benefit of the Asians; it seems incredible that with all that assistance available they are still ignorant of some of our laws.

Whether stated by the Asians themselves or by their apologists within the indigenous population "simply following cultural traditions" is no excuse whatsoever for breaking our laws.

Plastic Nightmare

BANKS ARE exploiting people by being too keen to offer them credit says a report by the Movement for Christian Democracy.

An estimated two million families are in serious or multiple debt because Britain is by far the highest plastic card user in Europe.

There was an average debt per household of £2,300 at the end of 1990 compared to just under £700 at the end of 1981.

Muslim Parliament

MUSLIMS IN Britain committed treason on Sunday 27th October by setting up a Muslim Parliament in opposition to Westminster.

Muslim leader Kalim Siddiqui said the 200 strong parliament would look after the needs of the Muslim community in Britain and seek to make them prosperous. Any involvement with British Political life bars Muslims from entering the Muslim Parliament.

NOT SERFS: British workers will not be treated like Prisoners of War.

No Evidence

ATTORNEY GENERAL, Sir Patrick Mayhew apologised to leading members of the Jewish community for the lack of prosecutions over anti-Semitism.

He said that this was due to the difficulty in finding concrete evidence of anti-Semitism.

WHEN TIMES WERE LESS VIOLENT

BRITAIN'S LONGEST serving Chief Constable has slammed the loss of the old certainties that controlled crime. In a statement issued on his retirement as Chief Constable of Northumbria, Sir Stanley Bailey, reminisced about the "good times" when thanks to firm law and order policies and effective policing "people knew where they stood".

Speaking of the old days a generation ago when the traditional gangs like the Richardsons, the Krays and the Frasers ran East and South-east London, Sir Stanley observed that, despite occasional well-publicised unpleasantness, generally only involving professional villains rather than the public, "in many ways it was less violent and we had the hangover from corporal punishment. Many of the villains were prepared to take imprisonment, but not the corporal punishment."

SOFTLY, SOFTLY: Today's Policing means there are no 'Old Certainties'

Whilst not joining his voice to the NF's, and most of the public's, call for the return of corporal punishment, the veteran policeman added that without it "I wonder how we will ever be able to stop criminals from re-offending time and time again".

The most experienced senior policeman in the country ended by observing that "There used to be three certainties - the certainty of detection, the certainty of conviction, and the certainty of punishment. Now there is nothing certain in the world.

Sir Stanley is right. Without those old certainties, crime will just go on increasing until Britain is a lawless violent jungle like America. Labour and Liberals always wanted to sweep away such certainties and go soft on crime. The Tories have had twelve years to restore the old certainties of law and order. They have failed utterly, and the slide into lawless anarchy has continued unchecked. Today crime stands at its highest level ever. Only the National Front will crack down on crime, restore corporal, and capital, punishment, restore Sir Stanley's "old certainties" and make Britain once again safe for the British people.

THE NATIONAL Front has announced that next year's St George's Day will be marked by a pageant of Anglo-Saxon Celtic history in the West Midlands. This marks a departure from our more usual march and the pageant will involve displays of archery, Anglo-Saxon and Celtic art and design, a Viking display, traditional ales, etc.

We had hoped to stage this in Handsworth Park on the North-Western edge of Birmingham, however Birmingham Council had a minor fit when they heard about our plans and the Leader of the Labour Council Richard Knowles issued a string of Press Statements of ever-increasing hysteria.

The National Front has simply decided to switch the location and go ahead with our plans on private rather than public land. One small side benefit to the announcement was that Radio WA which covers most of the Midlands and stretches nearly to Manchester invited NF Chairman, Ian Anderson to do a short interview and phone-in programme. Within minutes of the start, the switchboard was jammed and the 'short' programme last for a full hour. Out of thirteen calls, one man was trying to sell his furniture, two were hostile (one an Asian), and ten were in full support of the NF plans and their general attitude could be summed up "Thank God someone is standing up for the White people"

The proposed event also received press coverage in many newspapers across the Midlands and all this before the event has even taken place! Next April should be very interesting.

NATIONAL FRONT ANNUAL CONFERENCE: Delegates voted to safeguard the Party against infiltration from people who seek to discredit it.

THE NATIONAL FRONT'S ANNUAL CONFERENCE

THE 1991 ANNUAL Conference of the National Front was attended by delegates from all parts of the country. They had come not to be entertained with a succession of speeches but to properly debate aspects of Party policy and our future strategy and tactics.

Two resolutions were passed to safeguard the Party from hostile infiltration, the first of these makes the first year of membership of the party probationary, giving the party a chance to get to know a new member while not depriving him of any rights of privileges.

Amongst the policy resolutions was one calling for the expansion of Britain's space programme - especially with the effective collapse of that of the Soviet Union. There was also overwhelming support for a resolution opposing the Government's defence cuts and calling for the retention of our army regiments and our naval and air forces at their present strength.

On the question of strategy and tactics there were calls for more active campaigning on specific issues and this has already been enacted with the launching of our campaign protesting at the admission of tens of thousands of so-called "refugees".

During the early afternoon delegates were able to watch videos of an interview with John Hill in America, and of Swedish nationalists. The traditional collection was carried out by Steve Brady and the closing speech was given by NF Chairman Ian Anderson.

He stressed the importance of basic branch work and expressed his encouragement at the quality of member being recruited to the National Front. He also said that members should be very pleased with the changes in the composition of the party which had been achieved over the past ten years and which gave us tremendous confidence in the future.

Front Candidate

THE NATIONAL Front is to contest the seat of Ealing North at the General Election.

The local branch announced their decision to the Greenford & Northolt Gazette on 27th September.

NOT FOR HIRE

AN APPLICATION by the National Front to hire Shoreditch Town Hall has been turned down by Hackney Council.

On September 20th the Council agreed to allow an anarchist rally to go ahead at the venue where those in attendance were addressed by Andrew Murphy a Hackney Council Officer who had called the Trafalgar Square Rioters of last year "Working Class heroes".

ON SATURDAY October 12th Birmingham NF mobilised for a demonstration against a meeting by the IRA on Council property. At the meeting two representatives of Sinn Fein, the political wing of the IRA, addressed the 30 or 40 Labour Party trash who braved the NF picket.

With no thought for the families of the victims of the infamous Birmingham pub bombings in November 1974, Birmingham City Council and its Labour Leader Sir Richard Knowles, allowed this meeting to go ahead although the Hall used was within 200 yards of the pubs blown up.

For the start of the meeting some 60 plus NF members and supporters tried to gain entry to the meeting Hall to no avail. On being turned back by West Midlands Police we had to be content to heckle those who tried to gain entry.

Then a few members left the demonstration to go and protest at the Birmingham Post and Mail Newspaper officers after an editorial praised Bobby Sands and the meeting with Sinn Fein.

Birmingham City Council says it will let its property anyone bar the National Front. The heavy handed attitude of council security staff regarding this matter especially the welcome they gave to the Sinn Fein representative has made them targets of NF demonstrations in the future.

By the time the Sinn Fein meeting had ended the demonstration by the National Front had grown to around 150 all of them patriots and all from Birmingham.

Birmingham City Council have seen nothing yet.

By allowing this meeting they have shown they support the IRA. They have put themselves up as enemies of Britain and the British people.

BRING BACK PETER & JANE

by Stephen Ebbs

MARTY CASEY, a support teacher and a former member of the Ethnic Minority Group Support Services in Blackburn, recently suggested to the Oxford Press that there was need for stories featuring Asian children.

Needless to say, the Oxford University Press were eager to jump on the multi-racial brain-polluting bandwagon and produced a set of six books featuring a couple of Asian characters called Adam and Yasmin.

Adam goes shopping

oderick Hunt

ADAM & JASMIN: More multi-racial propaganda.

Mr Casey remarked "They have universal appeal. We thought that this was crucial so that even children who do not have an Asian background can identify with them. The books will be used for mainstream teaching and not just in schools with a high Asian intake".

Unfortunately, these books form part of the highly-regarded Oxford Reading Tree, a reading programme for young children. Programme? It really does sound like a planned effort to abuse the minds of highly responsive children.

Peter and Jane should resume their role of being the characters that British children read about when starting to learn the English Language. Peter and Jane are in, Adam and Yasmin are out!

Looking After the Asians

by Stephen Ebbs

A CAREERS convention was recently held in Accington Town Hall for Asian parents and their secondary schoolchildren.

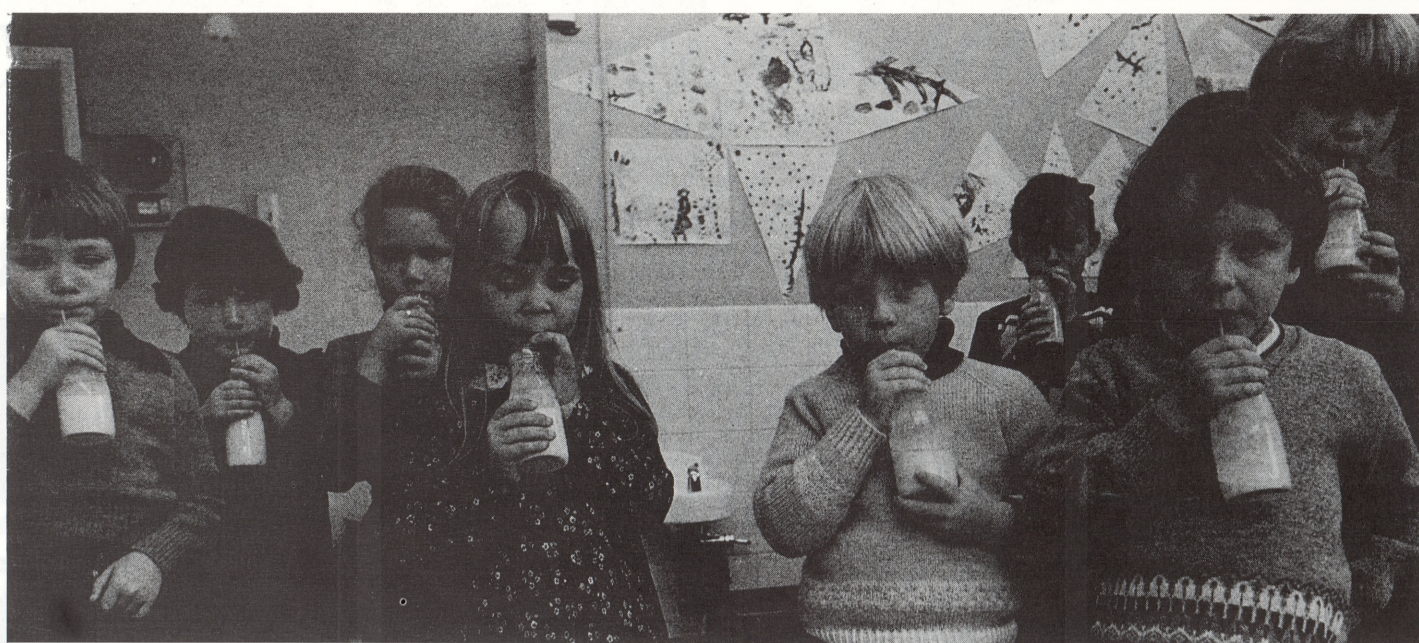

It was organised by the Hyndburn and Rossendale Careers Service together with Accrington and Rossendale College and the East Lancashire Training and Enterprise Council.

The purpose of the meeting was to cover the whole range of future career options for Asian school-leavers. - Yes, that is correct the convention was for Asians Only.

As a final insult this disgraceful meeting was conducted entirely in Urdu.

It seems almost beyond belief that alleged responsible organisations can, by their use of Urdu at the convention, imply that this alien tongue has a future in this country.

It is up to a National Front Government that such a linguistic change NEVER come about.

BRITISH SCHOOLCHILDREN: Now their parents have the right to insist on a British Education.

BRITISH PARENTS WHO fear their children's education is suffering in heavily-immigrant, multi-cultural schools do have the legal right to have them moved to proper British schools. What is more they can honestly say that the reason they want their children moved is that they don't want them being taught Asian languages and religions or swamped by immigrant offspring. That is the ruling of the High Court, delivered on October 18th.

Mr Justice MacPherson ruled that a mother of a five-year-old girl - ironically herself a half-caste - had the right to demand that her daughter be moved from a school where 60% of the pupils were Asian to one where they were mainly British on the grounds that the little girl had come home "singing Pakistani". The learned British judge further ruled that Cleveland County Council was right to grant the mother her wish. He went on to say that all councils must, by law, move British children to British schools if their parents asked them to do so, however "racist" such requests might be.

Mr Justice MacPherson dismissed an appeal against the pupil's move brought by the evil Race Board, the Commission for Racial Equality, saying "The local Education Authority has no right to reject the parent's request because it does not like the reason given."

By STEVE BRADY

The judge rejected the Race Board's argument that the Race Relations Act 1976 overruled parents' right to choose the best school for their child under the 1980 Education Act. He even criticised the existence of the Race Act itself, saying such matters were best left to good sense. Finally he attacked the Race Board for stirring up "a non-existent storm in a very small teacup."

Roger Peace, solicitor for the child's mother, Katrice Carney, said "The judge delivered a common sense judgement which has prevented Local Education Authorities having to become the thought police of education." A role Cleveland County Council is eager to take on. Its Deputy County Secretary, David Ashton, said the council "remains concerned about the effect on race relations of having to grant racist requests" and is to ask the Government to change the law to take away the parents' right to choose.

A right which infuriates the Race Board. Their Social Policy Director, Jean Coussins, said of the historic judgement "We fear it may give parents not just the right to choose, but local authorities the right to discriminate. Authorities may now be obliged to comply with such discriminatory requests even when it undermines their own equal opportunities policies".

This judgement is a great victory for British parents and their children. It means that if you don't want your child to go to a school full of immigrants, where he or she is brainwashed with Asian languages and religions, you can choose a British school instead, and demand that your Local Education Authority moves your child to that school. Which they must do, or you can take them to Court and make them.

Now British parents can make sure they get British schools for British children!

A British School & a British Education

"Urdu, Urdu, Urdu . . ."

POLICE OFFICERS in Pendle in Lancashire are to learn Urdu so that they can communicate better with the public.

Councillor Frank Clifford, vice-chairman of the Pendle Police and Community Forum said "There are people being born in Pendle who can only speak Urdu. These people are 'Pendle people' and the Police should be geared to look after their needs".

UK Passport Demand

THERE WERE 23,000 too many applications for British Passports from Hong Kong Residents.

Each application was submitted by a head of family and with families averaging 10 plus members in the colony that means that the Government has to placate 230,000 unlucky Hong Kong residents.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO PARENTS

You may have recently seen publicity in the newspapers about your right to move your child from a school if you are unhappy about what is being taught.

In the recent Court Case Jennifer Carney was allowed to move her child, Katrice, away from a school where she was being taught Hindi nursery rhymes and where the majority of pupils were Asian. Katrice is now being taught in a school which is 98% white.

The 1980 Education Act gives parents the right to choose a particular school and Mr Justice Macpherson ruled that this overrode the provisions of the 1976 Race Relations Act.

This means that white parents can now apply to have their children moved to predominantly white schools and, equally, Asian parents can apply to have their children moved to predominantly Asian schools, etc.

ATTEMPT TO CHANGE THE LAW

Mr David Ashton, Deputy County Secretary of Cleveland, said that the Council would now seek to have the law changed; but in the meantime your choice comes first.

The solicitor defending Jennifer Carney said: "The case establishes the principle that parents' wishes are paramount, and the judge delivered a common sense judgement that has saved education authorities from becoming the thought police of education".

If you wish to apply to have your son or daughter transferred then you must apply (in writing) to your local education authority. Make sure that you keep copies of all letters that you send.

If you would like more details of an organisation that supports the teaching of traditional British education to white children and the teaching of Black and Asian children in schools suited to their cultural backgrounds then please phone us on the number given below. We can also offer advice on how to make sure your child receives the education of your choice should you come up against 'Town Hall Bureaucracy'.

THE PANTOMIME DAME

THATCHER: Posturing

WHEN PRIME Ministers retire from office or are deposed, those with any sense - a tiny minority, admittedly - seek blessed anonymity and hope that their years of mismanagement and bungling will be blamed on their successors.

Not so Madam Thatcher. The Madwoman of Downing Street seems totally incapable of keeping her fishwifely trap shut; to the desperate embarrassment of John Major and the other Thatcherite feeblies who want only to quietly jettison everything she ever stood for.

She is, it seems, the classic victim of propaganda - she actually believes her own.

So we have had La Thatcher openly touting for a peerage so that she may use the Lords to ensure that the Thatcher wisdom is not lost to the nation. She touts for a Thatcher foundation so that it may not be lost to the world. She postures as the defender of Britain's independence against a European superstate; conveniently forgetting that the E.C. treaties and laws that she now finds so oppressive were the ones she quietly rubber stamped while in office.

Now, after a tearful phone call from daughter Carol (described as a TV journalist) she writes a letter of apology to the Chairman of TV AM, chief victim of her TV Franchise Auction, only for the ungrateful fellow to expose the idiot missive to a derisive world.

Even though we are now injured to having our former "great statesmen" later exposed as inept stumblebums, it really does seem incredible that this silly vain woman was allowed to spend eleven years ruining the country without hindrance.

For she who spent all those years posturing like a grande dame looks to the world increasingly like a comic pantomime dame.

Now We Know Who's Boss

THE SO-CALLED United Nations is forever emoting about the famine-stricken people in every part of the world even when the misfortune is in large measure self-inflicted.

There is one part of the world though where the "United Nations" apparently don't care less about starvation - Iraq. For in Iraq the starvation could not be in any way ascribed to the victim's own actions but is a direct consequence of the "United Nations" imposing a total blockade on Iraq.

Reports by independent observers confirming that hundreds of thousands of Iraqi children are suffering from malnutrition cut no ice whatsoever with the "United Nations".

"Ah", says George Bush, Godfather of Murder Incorporated, "but you see Saddam Hussein is still in power". Just so. The fact that he still enjoys widespread popularity among his people despite the horrors inflicted on Iraq by the "United Nations" apparently justifies punishing the Iraqis by having their children starved to death. Bush's poodle, our beloved Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd, apparently believes that it does.

INDISPUTABLE

I doubt if even the evil godfathers of the Mafia would contemplate starving children as a means of accomplishing their ends - only Murder Incorporated is capable of that and Bush's "New World Order" now seems not one jot less evil than all the other "New World Orders" that have preceded it.

Perhaps we need to remind ourselves of the declared aims of the "United Nations" after Iraq invaded the private estate of the brutally-feudal Al Sabah family. They were that Iraq should leave Kuwait - that and nothing more. No destruction of Iraq's vital infrastructure was envisaged; no wholesale slaughter of Iraqi citizens; no starving of their children; no forced overthrow of their Government.

All of these things are the policies of the U.S. Government - for purposes we know well enough - using its wholly-owned subsidiary the "United Nations" as a front.

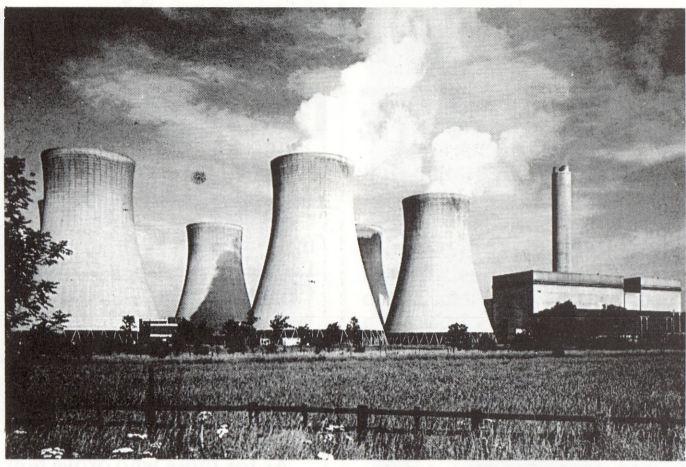

If anyone has any doubt as to who is actually running the show, they might consider the actions of the "United Nations" nuclear inspection team that has been strutting through Iraq like Roman conquerors. Composed mainly of Americans with an American Leader, David Kay, it has made the ludicrous assertion that Iraq was only eighteen months away from making a nuclear weapon and was on the verge of making a hydrogen bomb; claims ridiculed by nuclear experts of every persuasion.

CONTEMPLATE

That Iraq had nuclear ambitions is indisputable. That such ambitions were dangerous is self-evident. One should ask, however, why Iraq and many other countries should embark on the ruinously expensive course of acquiring such weapons. It is, quite simply, that Israel has a large stock of nuclear weapons, manufactured with American connivance, targeted on Iraq and its neighbours. No "United Nations" nuclear inspection team will be imposed on Israel however - there being the slight logistical problem that they would all be shot dead if they attempted it.

So David Kay did not offer any criticism of the Israeli nuclear threat. Nor did he make his report to his nominal employers the "United Nations". He showed them that he had no intention of dealing with stooges when he could go right to the top.

He made his report firstly to the United States State Department!

NATIONAL POWER: Is to burn one of the world's filthiest fuels.

POLLUTION

Threat from Foreign Coal

THE SKIES over Britain will be polluted with hundreds of thousands of tons of acid-rain-causing sulphur dioxide if newly-privatised National Power gets its way and replaces British coal in its power stations with imported Venezuelan 'orimulsion', which experts call "one of the world's filthiest fuels".

National Power has applied to Energy Secretary John Wakeham for permission to convert its Pembroke, West Wales, power plant from British coal to imported orimulsion. The orimulsion, a mixture of bitumen and water, will cause that one power station alone to emit over 200,000 tons of sulphur dioxide a year. Which will fall as deadly acid rain on anywhere downwind of its filth-belching chimneys.

Directly downwind of Pembroke power stations are the uplands of mid-Wales, already hit hard by acid rain. So the Countryside Council for Wales is protesting against the imported fuel plan. According to its spokesman Mike Gash, "Some of the central uplands are already acidified beyond the point where damage is critical and long term. They have been hammered. We think we have a very strong case against National Power's plans which should be heard because we are the Government's chief adviser on conservation in Wales".

Already, acid rain has killed all the fish in many Welsh rivers and streams. It has also wiped out over much of its haunts the dipper, a small bird which feeds on little water creatures the acid rain has killed off. National Power's imported pollution will no doubt kill off the wildlife that remains in the Welsh uplands.

National Power plans to go ahead with its imported orimulsion plan even though it admitted that 85% of British coal gives off less sulphur dioxide acid rain gas than its imported Venezuelan fuel. And even though it has refused to fit flue gas desulphurisation equipment to its chimneys to remove at least some of the sulphur dioxide coming out of them.

In fact, imported orimulsion may be used at other plants, not just in Wales. PowerGen, the other company to which the Tories sold off Britain's electricity generation industry, plans to burn it at its plant at Richborough, in Kent. In August a trial burn of Venezuelan orimulsion produced a corrosive black cloud which stripped the paintwork off the new cars stored nearby, causing millions of pounds worth of damage.

But it is not surprising that the newly-privatised Capitalist power combines should want to import foreign filth fuels to foul Britain's skies. Like all Capitalists, all they care about is making money. Even if it pollutes our sky, poisons our rivers, and puts British coal-miners producing a cleaner fuel out of work. Under Capitalism, none of that matters. Greed is God.

ACID RAIN: Destroys all in its path downwind of offending power stations

Patriotic Germans Make Electoral Gains

by Darren Copeland

THE GERMAN People's Union (DVU) made considerable gains in elections for the Bremen State Parliament held on Sunday, September 29th.

The DVU gained 6.18% of the vote and won 6 seats, up from the 3.4% and one seat they won in 1987. Many political observers believe this will signal a resurgence of support for Nationalist parties who were written off as a serious political force when the Republicans failed to gain seats in the Federal Parliament in the General Election last December.

SEX SCANDAL

The Republicans did manage to win 7% of the vote and 6 seats in the 1989 Euro-Elections but have since fallen apart due to internal splits and a sex scandal in which it was revealed that the leader of the Party's Women's Section was a former sports commentator who had had a sex change. They also had their nationalist clothes stolen by Chancellor Helmut Kohl and his Christian Democratic Union (CDU) who benefited greatly from the patriotic celebrations that greeted German reunification.

However the revival in Nationalist support stems largely from the inaction of the CDU and all the other main political parties with regard to asylum seekers. It is estimated that 230,000 people will seek asylum in Germany this year, 97% of these will be bogus refugees coming to Germany because it offers them better economic conditions and welfare benefits than if they had stayed in their own countries.

HAMMERING

This was a major issue in the Bremen State elections, with the result that those who were perceived to be soft on immigration took a hammering at the polls, the Social Democratic Party (SPD) saw their vote drop from 50.5% in the 1987 elections to 38.79% this time, because of the SPD's liberal views on asylum seekers.

The upshot of these polls and the recent result in Bremen has been to force Chancellor Kohl to speed up and trim down the process of those seeking asylum, with 45,000 refugees being housed in 90 camps formerly used by the Soviet Army while the authorities decide what to do with them.

In a country where there is already a chronic shortage of housing and jobs this may well prove to be a fertile period for the DVU and other Nationalist groups!

British Taxpayers pay to train the Terrorists of the ANC!

COMMUNIST TERRORISTS of the African National Congress, a close ally of the provisional IRA, are to be trained by our Government, Tory Prime Minister John Major announced on October 16th. Even though his predecessor, Margaret Thatcher, rightly described the ANC as "a terrorist organisation" at the Commonwealth Summit in Vancouver in 1987.

In a meeting with ANC boss and convicted Marxist terrorist Nelson Mandela, Major announced that ANC "cadres"

JOHN MAJOR: Closing his eyes to the atrocities of the ANC.

GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER: Convicted terrorist Nelson Mandela dined with John Major.

would be trained at the British taxpayer's expense at the Civil Service College, Sunningdale, Berkshire, and the London Business School. The training will help the ANC terrorists to run the one-party Marxist dictatorship they plan to establish if they get their hands on South Africa.

A dictatorship Major could see for his own eyes at the time. For his meeting took place at the Commonwealth Conference in "Harare, Zimbabwe", amid the bankrupt ruins of once prosperous Rhodesia. A proud and loyal country which was handed over to another Marxist former terrorist and current tyrant, Robert Mugabe, by the Tories in 1980, and in direct breach of a 1979 Tory election pledge not to do so. Now the Tories are set to sell South Africa down the same river of blood.

Spot The Difference!

THE ACQUITTAL of IRA murderer Desmond Ellis at the Old Bailey has been hailed by some of our treacherous media trash as "a triumph of British justice".

Just so. What a little holiday British justice must have bestowed in the hearts of every IRA psychopath; what joy it must have brought to all those well-connected subversives who seek at every opportunity to use their entrenched privileges to undermine our nation.

The victims of the IRA lie in their graves unavenged or live their lives maimed without redress of course but that's a minor matter - we mustn't allow thoughts of revenge to tarnish "British justice", must we?

Incredibly, the self-confessed IRA killer Ellis offered the mind-boggling defence that he had already been punished for his murdering and maiming by having served eight years in jail in Eire. Let us hope that he was not too greatly inconvenienced. He further claimed that he had not intended his bombs to kill people in mainland Britain - he'd only intended to kill and maim people in Ulster. Oh well, that's all right then.

Incredible did I say? Not to the London jury. It is now a fact that any London jury is likely to be of such a scummy composition as for it to be almost impossible to convict any felon, especially if the felon is anti-British.

It is an attitude of mind that the media seem determined to establish nationwide.

Have you noticed how, just recently, the media have been concentrating on the wickedness of Loyalist terrorists who are carrying the war to the IRA. They are, we are told, merely engaged in mindless sectarian warfare and entirely out of order; their proper role being that of victims not aggressors. This is an unacceptable role-reversal.

So we hear that any killing carried out by Loyalists is "the murder of a Catholic man". In fact, of course, most Loyalist killings are of IRA murderers or activists.

Where an innocent Catholic man is killed it is to be condemned without reservation, but that does not justify the media preparing us for the Sell Out of The Century by trying to brain-wash us into believing that Loyalists versus the IRA is just a case of six of one and half a dozen of the other in which we should adopt a position of lofty neutrality.

The UVF kill the IRA, they do not kill British civilians, they do not kill British soldiers, they do not, like Desmond Ellis, plant bombs to kill and maim indiscriminately.

The Cant Hypocrisy of Britain's Banks

WHAT WAS THE most misleading series of adverts that you have seen this year? Perhaps it was the Nat-West campaign featuring a smiling greengrocer's son who becomes a small firms adviser "trying to make sure that people don't make the same mistakes my old man did".

You know, the one with an equally obnoxious woman introduced to us as Daniel's mum who happens to be a mortgage adviser and who we are told is helping "young couples with kiddies", and this we are led to believe is the kind of service to expect when we bank with the Nat-West.

We all know what to expect from the Nat-West and indeed all of the other main high street banks, random and unpredictable charges, illiterate threatening letters, junk mail, excessive interest rates, long queues, inconvenient opening hours, broken ballpoint pens on chains, cashpoint machines that run out of money when you need it the most and glossy advertisement campaigns that must have been written by Walter Mitty.

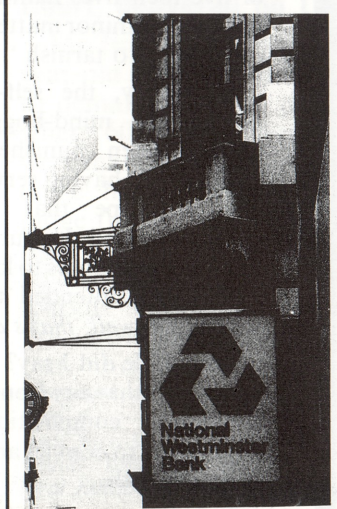

Indeed Nat-West was forced to drop the adverts mentioned when it was pointed out that it was ripping the small businessman off left, right and centre and had taken part in a record number of house repossessions over the previous 12 months thus wrecking a £20 million advertising campaign and giving the Nat-West a taste of its own medicine.

Today the banks are to British life what the Gas and Electricity boards and the unions were in the late seventies and what local government still is: pompous jobsworths who hide their own ineptness behind a mask of snide sadism. Nobody likes them or thinks they are any good and everybody is convinced that to be a customer is to agree to pay off their Third World debts or any other financial bungle perpetrated by head office.

The most amazing thing about this is that they seem totally unaware how much we loathe them and thus seem to make matters even worse.

Some years ago a group known as the Jack Committee proposed a code of conduct for the banks in dealing with their customers. It was a pretty reasonable package covering charges, confidentiality

NAT-WEST: Press for inaction

by

and so on. A white paper emerged but was then put on ice while the banks worked out a self-regulating code.

What emerged was so inadequate and transparently laced with loopholes and small print that even the Bank of England and the Treasury were forced to tell them it wasn't good enough, but still no action was taken by government.

Everyone now agrees that the Banks must step into line so what would the National Front do to ensure that the banks treat their customers with more respect?

Well, first of all under a National Front government, the main High Street banks would be nationalised and owned directly by the state. Secondly the export of capital would be banned, putting an end to the customers having to pay for the banks Third World misadventures. Thirdly, the amount of interest they could charge and the standards of service provided by both would be regulated putting an end to the unpredictable charges.

They would still compete with each other in terms of the variety of services they offer, but their main task would be to act as the go-between for the transfer of money from one person to another by means of cheque accounts. Thus we would bring the banks into line by ensuring strict accountability to both customers and government!

It is time for the fed-up customers of banks to rise up and support the National Front's policies for change. To parody Karl Marx, like the broken ballpoints you have nothing to lose but your chains!

RACE RELATIONS GESTAPO HOUND GALBRAITH TO THE GRAVE!

GALBRAITH: Hounded

THE NEWS of the death of Bill Galbraith will have given great pleasure to every degenerate in the Race Relations lobby.

Bill Galbraith it was, you will recall, who had the temerity to protest over the imposition of a Black Tory candidate on Cheltenham; using the kind of impolite language that the affront merited.

For this he was expelled from the Tory Party, blacklisted in two of the town's bars and was scheduled for prosecution under the Race Relations Act, even though he was dying of cancer.

Some of those who were to the fore in the persecution of Bill Galbraith have since expressed their weaselly-worded regrets. Let us hope that the voters of Cheltenham do not allow them to wash away their sins with crocodile tears and that they will have the guts to administer the appropriate punishment to the treacherous Tories at the next election.

As for those who drove him to his grave - I wish everything they wished Bill Galbraith. May misfortune pursue them and overtake them.

The World of Alan Bate

"You'll have to hold on sir, I've a much more serious crime to attend to over there!"

Creaky Knights

JUST ABOUT all forms of degeneracy seem to start in America. For instance, in the Episcopal Church, the American offshoot of the Church of England, it is now possible for a pair of devoted queers to be married in church by a one-legged black woman priest.

Naturally, since we invariably import everything that's rotten about America, such an event is being seriously canvassed as a distinct possibility in the Church of England.

I suppose it is for this reason that John Major, so adept at sniffing changes in the wind and trimming his sails to suit, invited Sir Ian McKellen to visit him at 10 Downing Street.

Sir Ian, sometimes described in the "gay" press as "a dish", is a well-known Thespian poof who was the first to be knighted after "coming out" or, as some might say, exposing himself in public.

The Prime Minister is said to have listened sympathetically to Sir Ian and apologised for being "ill-informed" about the problems of "gay men". God, what that fellow won't do to get a vote!

This country today seems to be positively teeming with queer knights; so much so that one now views anyone with the prefix "Sir" with the deepest suspicion.

I don't know if it was always so. I can't recall a Sir Poof at the Court of King Arthur though I suppose it's always possible that they sat at a round table so that they could keep a sharp eye on each other and I must say that I've always had some doubts about Sir Lancelot.

The armour would have been a problem too. It's just as well that our new knights don't wear armour or we'd have to stop talking about a chink in the armour and refer to a kink in the armour. Shirt-lifters would become chain-mail lifters and many of our present-day knights would seize up from the effects of hanging around damp public lavatories.

Still, the way things are, the next time I hear a strange clanking noise emanating from a public loo, I'll wonder if it really is a wonky cistern.

Suicide Note

WE ARE all now well accustomed to the ploy used by Britain's burgeoning horde of public servants whenever they are seeking a pay rise; whether they be nurses, town hall staff, teachers, probation officers, or whatever. They are all so noble that it's never the money they're interested in; it's the future of their "profession".

There surely cannot ever have been a time when this country has had to endure such a crushing burden of "professionals". Almost nobody, it seems, any longer does anything so mundane as actually working for a living - all are pursuing a "profession".

I've never understood why a girl who spends three years training to be a nurse then enters a profession while an engineering apprentice who trains for five years merely becomes a tradesman, especially when one is a charge on the public purse while the other is among the few who actually contribute to it. Work, in Britain, is indeed a four letter word. The few people who are actually engaged in the undignified business of earning the country's living might well complain of being a persecuted minority.

If there is a definition of a "profession" it is surely that of a calling that requires a high degree of learning combined with the sort of dedication that entails a lofty disregard of such grubby considerations as financial reward.

I fear that most of our "professionals" fail the test on some counts and some on all counts. The one count in which they all, without exception, fail the test is that of money.

Far from being above that sort of thing, they jostle each other in a wild stampede to get their snouts in the trough first; no matter that the country's economic performance is pathetic or that large numbers of their fellow citizens live near to poverty.

There was a time when I actually believed the trade union propaganda that nurses and teachers, for instance, were wretchedly ill-rewarded - that was until I saw their pay scales. They might, like most other people, be able to convince themselves that they are badly paid but their wages are, in fact, of an order that many skilled workers on the high-priced, low-paid South Coast can only dream of.

Yet still they want more than the going rate. I suppose it's professional pride. Professional fiddlers in the Covent Garden Orchestra are demanding a 24% increase. The National Union of Teachers, the last refuge of discredited commies and levellers, are a mere 19.5% compared with the 4.1% that has been awarded to the unemployed and pensioners.

Considering that Britain lies second only to the United States in functional illiteracy among its schoolchildren and second to none in indiscipline, they should be grateful that they don't get paid by results.

But then, you see, it's not the money they're really interested in;

it's the future of their "profession", with its need to attract young people of high quality by offering a lot more money to everyone.

They are surely not so much making a pay claim as signing a suicide note.

For if there really was a flood of young people of high quality into the "profession", all the present incompetent incumbents would be out on their ear post haste.

Communion of Weirdoes

THE LATEST emanation from the Church of England's freak tank is the report by the Committee on Black Anglican Concerns chaired by Nigerian Dr John Sentamu. This calls for the all-out negritification of every aspect of the Church through a process of "education".

Now whenever I'm threatened with being "educated" by someone my reaction, after my hackles have risen to their full height, is to ask, "And who shall educate the educators?"

For I have a vivid recollection of the time when a pair of birdbrained women editing a women's fashion magazine were asked why they employed so many Black models. "Why", they twittered, "We think it's our duty to educate the public". And now we are to be "educated" by simpering dog-collared cretins.

For the committee on Black Anglican Concerns declares that there is an urgent need for multi-cultural "education" even in deepest Surrey where there are no Black people. Now the inhabitants of deepest Surrey probably don't know how lucky they are and are just going about their bucolic business not realising that their luck is about to change for the worse. The malicious and unChristian revelation that there are Black-free areas in deepest Surrey must surely provoke a mass invasion by White refugees from the infested areas who hadn't previously realised that such places existed.

It seems that the Committee on Black Anglican Concerns is positively miffed that there should be any part of Britain untouched by the tarbrush. It complains that there are rural dioceses that actually have no anti-racist programme because they are not aware of a problem and that one parish "has never even considered having Black people on the parochial council". The implication is that most others have considered this bizarre proposal. In deepest Surrey where there are no Blacks, this must result in quite a large outlay on burnt cork and boot polish.

I regard this report as possibly the most grotesque since the Highlands and Islands Development Council proposed importing masses of coloured immigrants to counter their depopulation problem.

It is a fact that there is not one single aspect of English life, be it Law, Parliament, Sport, the Church and so on ad nauseam, that has not been stealthily undermined and perverted for the purpose of destroying our nation; just as we said they would be from the beginning.

That the community of weirdoes who now comprise our Established Church should become the instruments for the destruction of everything English was inevitable. There have been calls for the Church of England to be disestablished. I would recommend disembowelment were it not for the fact that it's too good for them.

Ruthless Measures

THE ATTEMPTED terrorist attack on the Army Catering Corp barracks at Aldershot came as a great surprise to most soldiers in the area since they had always supposed that the Catering Corp was in the pay of the enemy. It must also have come as a great surprise to the presumed IRA attackers to have a few shots loosed off in their direction when, in the past, the Government's steely determination to destroy the IRA has resulted in sentries being forbidden to carry loaded weapons.

But, in any case, is it really necessary for Catering Corp sentries to carry guns? One would have thought it sufficient for the barracks to be surrounded by a network of trip wires which, when activated, could release a hail of the Catering Corp's famous faggots; almost as dangerous as high-velocity ammunition and far harder hitting than plastic bullets.

An IRA gang caught in such a barrage would inevitably be rendered hors de combat and could then be dragged inside the barracks to be subjected to a ruthless interrogation. If, after electric shock torture, removing of fingernails, and flogging with red-hot pokers, they still wouldn't talk, they could be strapped down and force-fed with the Catering Corp's deadly cheese and potato pie. That would assuredly break their spirit and the horror-stricken wretches would reveal all.

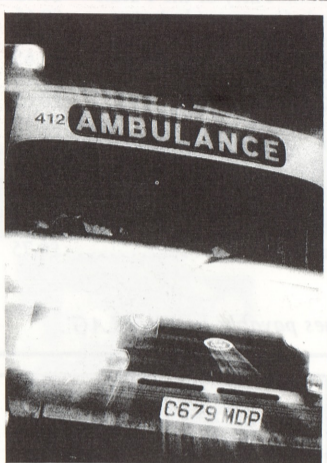

Now I'm sure that wimpish organisations such as Amnesty International would claim that this was a breach of the Geneva Convention and constituted a cruel and unnatural punishment.

Such voices should be not be heeded. The Army Catering Corps must be flung into the battle to demoralise the IRA and finally convince them that we will stop at nothing to defeat them.

AMBULANCE: Screeching

Creeping Americanisms

WHEN I hear the sound of an emergency vehicle's siren I always spare a thought for the people in the fire, ambulance and police services. I know that they will be trying their level best to either reduce the damage to property, ease the pain of any victim or apprehend a wrongdoer.

Sadly, my thoughts these days are not accompanied by the traditional two-tone siren, but by a ghastly screeching that would not be out of place on an American film.

Is there anything wrong with our sirens? Or is it just another tragic victim of the creeping Americanisms which we can all too readily observe on the islands?

This Disgusting Article!

I ENCLOSE a article, which is taken from the Birmingham Evening Mail of Thursday 10th October, 1991. In which journalist Maureen Messent in her straight talking column, says that we should honour IRA member Bobby Sands.

I and many other Brummies find this disgusting, as many of us can still remember that terrible night in 1974 when 21 innocent men and women were blown to pieces in the 'Pub Bombings'.

Maureen Messent announced her plans to attend a Sinn Fein (IRA) meeting in Birmingham Central Library on Saturday 12th October.

The Birmingham Branch of the National Front were the only political party who opposed this disgusting meeting.

The other parties in Birmingham said and did nothing. The Labour Party didn't want to offend the Irish Hunger Strike Committee. The Liberals didn't want to get involved, and the Tories while mummbling their disapproval, backed down to the murderers.

A few days prior to this meeting the survivors of the Pub Bombings asked for a special service of remembrance to be held in St Phillips Cathedral or a private dinner in memory of the victims at Birmingham Town Hall. Neither request was granted but instead the Council allowed a meeting to take place in honour of Bobby Sands, a murderer himself and whose murderous colleagues took so many young peoples' lives in 1974.

We in Birmingham National Front will never forget them.

Neil Keilty,
Birmingham Branch.

They Get Immediate Treatment

THERE ARE good and honest folk born in this country who are waiting for hospital treatment. Some of them will die before it comes.

Yet we now see that 3 illegal immigrants from Bangladesh who are suffering from typhoid, paratyphoid and malaria are to get immediate treatment. Between them they have paid nothing in to this country but they are allowed to sneak in and get immediate hospital treatment first.

But that is not good enough for them. Now they have run away from a London hospital at the risk of spreading their rotten diseases on to everybody else and the authorities now say that if they give themselves up to any hospital they may look favourably towards them.

What a load of nonsense. These three men should not be here in the first place and we should not spend another penny on them. They should be hunted down like common criminals and packed off to where they come from, and the money spent on the people who have paid it into the Health Service in the first place.

It is no wonder we are the laughing stock of the world.

Bill Ingham,
Bolton.

Tightening Their Grip on Aussie TV

DID YOU see the 'Dennis Norden Show' the other weekend?

Yes, even in Australia, the claws of the anti-racist lobby are slowly but surely tightening their grip on Aussie T.V.

One of Dennis Norden's clips from his show saw an investigative reporter hounding a man who wanted to sell his home. Unfortunately the paper, in which this man advertised to sell his home, had misprinted the words "No agents" for "No Asians", (and of course that will never do!).

However, it took about 5 minutes of the interview for the mistake to be discovered, (in that they had been talking cross purposes for that length of time), but it just goes to show how deep they are prepared to delve and how ready they are to jump on anyone, who stands in the way of the "one world" mafia and their common objectives.

I SEE that the National Front's old friend Lenny Henry has been made up to appear as a White man in his new film 'True Identity'.

I wonder if the Race Relations industry, who object so strongly when white performers black their faces for carnivals and shows, will say anything about Mr Henry. I somehow doubt it!

Pleased Syria Exposed Shamir

I WAS delighted when the Syrian Foreign Secretary held up a copy of Shamir's 'Wanted' poster at the recent Middle-East Peace Conference. The terrorist past of the State of Israel had been too quickly forgotten by politicians of all countries.

I joined a National Front demonstration at Downing Street in 1977 which called for the arrest of another Israeli terrorist who was then its Prime Minister and visiting Britain, that was the Butcher Menachem Begin. He was directly responsible for the murder of British sergeants Pace and Martin before their bodies were booby-trapped and strung up in a Eucalyptus Grove.

The double-standards of our Government makes me sick. They hound soldiers from the last war for alleged crimes that were nothing to do with Britain or the British people and yet wine and dine known terrorists who are proven murderers of British soldiers and civilians.

Arthur Vigour,
Weymouth, Dorset.

What Have They Been Doing?

I UNDERSTAND that members of the Monday Club have contacted the National Front and are eager to liaise on various projects that they believe will be beneficial to Britain.

My advice is "Don't touch them with a barge pole".

So-called right-wing and patriotic Tories have an appalling track record for the last 14 years. They have stayed loyal to a Party that has flooded Britain with coloured immigrants, undermined British Sovereignty by tying us to Europe (including building that monstrosity the Channel Tunnel), devastated Britain's manufacturing industry and sold off all Britain's assets for a knock-down price to foreign businessmen.

If the National Front had anything to do with the Monday Club they must be mad. That is not to say that individuals from that organisation could not join the NF, of course they are free to do so, but the first question I intend to ask any such person is "What have you been doing for the last 14 years?"

THE FIRST DAY ON THE SOMME

By Martin Middlebrook

At 7.30am on 1st July 1916, a continuous line of British soldiers climbed out of their trenches and began to walk slowly towards the German lines. Many of them believed that the enemy positions had already been destroyed. By the end of the day they had suffered 60,000 casualties - one for every 18 inches of the Front. This is a vivid and moving account, including the recollections of hundreds of survivors, and gives a brilliant, horrifying and intensely moving portrait of war on the front line.

GREED BEHIND SUPER LEAGUE

THE CONCEPT of the 'Super League' is based on 'greed' and is totally opposed by the National Front.

The Football Association's proposed changes are a betrayal of football's history and culture, which has been based on recognising the fact that clubs like Manchester United and Liverpool need clubs like Halifax Town and Wrexham. Hundreds of transfers of players from the Fourth Division to the First Division bear witness to this relationship.

The Premier League with its monopoly on TV coverage will send the other 72 League clubs to the wall. These clubs will go part-time causing large-scale redundancies for players, coaches, scouts and other staff.

Shorn of at its roots, the game will wither and die with the small band of surviving clubs devouring the spoils and one another before the end of the century.

Make sure your voice is heard at your football club "Reject the Super League!"

CHANGING FACE OF BRITAIN'S SCHOOLS: Edge Hill Cricket Team

BAD NEWS: There's only one White lad in the Edge Hill High School Cricket team!

GOOD NEWS: He's the Captain!

by Stephen Ebbs

WE REPORTED in an article entitled 'Tensions' in The FLAG No. 52 that Police were called in to deal with racial clashes between children at Edge Hill High School in Nelson.

The Headmaster, Dr Paul Mortimer commented then that should racial tension enter the school it would be kept under control.

So how is it to be kept under control?

The accompanying photograph of the school's under 13 cricket team gives us the answer... Surrender to the Asians, with the attitude that if the indigenous population complains then the tried and trusted Race Relations Act must be brought in to assist a change of mind.

There is one piece of good news though, the only Briton in the team, John Dennis, is the captain!

That is, until an Asian complains.

Absence of Sth. Africa

WHITE RACIAL-Nationalist Rugby fans who have been disappointed by the absence of South Africa from this year's World Cup Competition, and by the fact that racial-masochistic "Whites" from the former Rhodesia have been prepared to degrade themselves by playing under the name of "Zimbabwe", will no doubt be pleased to learn that there has been at least one racial-patriot playing in the competition.

Although it has been widely reported that John Allan, the Scottish hooker, was brought up in South Africa and played provincial rugby for Natal, what is not so widely known is that he hails from a staunchly Loyalist and patriotic family.

Together with his father Ricky and his brother Billy he was a keen member of the Durban Branch of the (Glasgow) Rangers F.C. Supporters Association - which was founded by S.A. Patriot editor Alan Harvey. Furthermore John Allan also played in goal for the club's highly successful Natal Sunday League soccer team, a side, moreover, which was latterly managed by Donnie McCallum, an avid member of the pro-White rule Patriotic Forum.
